

Molecular Medicine Program of the Taiwan International Graduate Program

The Taiwan International Graduate Program (TIGP) offers Ph.D. degrees in collaboration with a consortium of national research universities in Taiwan. The Molecular Medicine Program (MMP) is one of the programs offered under TIGP. The Molecular Medicine Program is administered by the Institute of Biomedical Sciences, Academia Sinica and the School of Life Sciences, National Yang Ming University. The MMP program has over 50 faculty members conducting research encompassing both basic and applied areas of molecular medicine, providing students with a wide choice of stimulating research topics in an international environment.
